Ethics matters. In life and in business. Bombshell Accessories/ Metal Mafia trades on that principle. In the era of cutthroat and carelessness, we choose commitment and accountability. No excuses. No slack. No margin for error. Bombshell Accessories/Metal Mafia is the result of three people's dedication to doing it right every time, in a world where things being done wrong has become the norm. We make jewelry, but our company also makes a home for both the people who work here and the people we serve. Our style is as persuasive as our honesty. Our quality is as irreproachable as our integrity. Our designs are as righteous as we are.

A BRIEF LESSON IN (PIERCING) PAIN

BY CORY KUBRAK

Artwork by Freda Diesing (Haida), Mask,
Old Woman With Labret, 1974

Artwork depicting Aztec tongue piercing ritual

Mursi Tribe woman with lip plate

The needle breaks skin, digging into flesh; a hot flash, flushing of blood, and a quick pinch. A piece of metal is implanted into the body, and all that's left of that ephemeral moment is a dull ache at the site. Whatever the reason for the piercing, the pierced individual walks away with a boost of serotonin, having done something to their body that makes them happier, and within a few days that aching pain will have passed. This isn't a sensation purely relegated to the 20th/21st century, but a shared experience across ages and continents.

Women of the Haida people of Canada wore labrets as a status symbol. Members of the Nahuatl (Aztec) and Mayan tribes performed tongue piercings as part of ritual blood sacrifice, and would pass a thread through the piercing to enhance blood flow.

The Mursi tribe of Nilotic Africa implanted lip plates— this was done gradually over years, starting with smaller plates. It was used to represent and convey fertility, and seen as a sign of great beauty. Many members of today's youth culture get piercings to brandish what subculture they belong to or as a deliberate response to more widely accepted, conservative standards. In truth, though the methods may have evolved with the advent of modern tech, many of the styles remain timeless and unaltered. There are only so many places you can poke holes, after all. Whatever the reason for piercing, one constant remains— you've got to be able to handle pain. We seem drawn to it as a people; the sharp juxtaposition of pure pleasure against pinching pain may set off a primal spark in our synapses. For some, the allure comes in the form of self therapy through cathartic release. And still for others, pain is a strong reminder of why we prefer pleasure.

It seems no distance, neither through time nor across continents, can change or stop the linked human experience of piercing flesh with needles to install metal objects into our bodies. After all, it's only a little jab in exchange for a cool new look.

CATCHING UP WITH

WarmArt Tattoo & BodyPiercing,
Twin Falls, Idaho

"We promise you a clean professional atmosphere, to help you celebrate the individual you are becoming."

family. Then WarmArt Tattoo & BodyPiercing was born. I have taken many classes over the years both online and in person, attended many conferences and worked with a couple other piercers. I got to meet a few pioneers in our industry over the years and I continue to be open to learning. I love what I do. Like the old saying goes, if you love what you do you will never work a day in your life.

I have been in the tattoo and body piercing industry for over 30 years now. I have to say the best part about being a professional piercer is the customers. I love meeting new customers and hearing where they are from and what brought them into WarmArt Tattoo & BodyPiercing. It amazes me how many people from out of state come in to get a piercing from me because they just don't trust anyone else. My favorite comment from customers is when they bring their children or grandchildren in to get pierced and say "I remember when you pierced my nose when I was 16, I tell everyone to go to you. I won't go to anyone else." It is an amazing feeling to know people trust me enough to bring their whole family, including their newborn children to me for all their piercings. I've done teenagers to grandparents - the oldest person I have pierced, I believe was 82!

WarmArt Tattoo and BodyPiercing has been a part of the Twin Falls Idaho Community for over 30 years. As a part of the community, we consider it our duty to give back. WarmArt Tattoo and BodyPiercing supports many local and national charities such as the Relay for Life, Toys for Tots, Coats for Kids, Valley House, local animal shelters and Tough Enough to Wear Pink. In the year 2020 my wife, Laurie, and I, were surprised by the Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce with the Extra Mile Award, for all our service and support we do in the community. This was a great honor for us, Laurie and I have always thought that giving back to the community is something we are supposed to do. After all, if it wasn't for the people in the community, we wouldn't have a business. We have won many customer service awards over the years for best local tattoo & body piercing shop. Most recently we won an award for best tattoo & body piercing

I started piercing when I was 34 years old. I tell you my age because at the time I was probably one of the oldest beginner piercers in the area, if not the country and felt a little out of place in the piercing community. In 1991 after my mom passed away, I was managing the family pawnshop business and trying to keep it going. In trying to revive the business, I decided to bring in a different service, a tattoo parlor. We opened up WarmArt Tattoo in 1991 and almost immediately, people started asking for piercings. The tattoo artists wanted nothing to do with it and said, "Why don't you do piercings?". I never even thought I was going to do anything else in my life except run the family business. I educated myself by reading books, checking on the internet (BME) and of course doing free piercings on my friends and shop for Central Idaho.

I love when I get to experience life-changing moments with my customers. A while ago, I had a young lady come in; she was maybe 16 years old. She had been suffering from migraines her whole life and heard about the daith piercing. She wanted to get both daiths done because most of her migraines were on her left side. So, I showed her some Metal Mafia jewelry, sterilized the jewelry, and pierced her daith. As I was cleaning her piercing, she started to cry, (which I thought was strange because the piercing part was over) so I asked, "Are you ok?". She said, "This is the first time I haven't had a migraine in years." I then looked at her

I don't believe I have ever turned anyone away. You see, for me it's not just about poking holes, sometimes it's about changing lives- even if it is just for a few minutes.

In the beginning there wasn't much of a choice in body piercing jewelry, mainly just stainless barbells, CBR and curved barbells. They were overpriced or just plain junk and the quality control was almost non-existent. We have been with Metal Mafia since their very beginning in 2004. The attraction was, and still is, price, quality control, innovative ideas, and knowledgeable representatives. The sales reps are friendly and call regularly to confirm my orders, let me know when something is out of stock or if something new is on sale. In the last two years we have expanded our jewelry inventory at least 150% to keep up with the growing population in our area and need for expert advice on installing and removing jewelry with quality jewelry by experienced piercers.

Our customers set the trends in our area. In the beginning (1990's) we did navels, tongues, and ears. Even though we still do these piercings, the customers are always trying to set themselves apart from each other. Now with Instagram, Google, Pinterest and the relaxation in the workplace about piercings, individuals have more freedom than ever to express themselves through piercings. I do piercings that nobody in our area will do, due to their inexperience.

I am now almost 65 years old and still love what I do. Thank God for good eyesight, steady hands and the willingness to serve our community. As one mother and all three of us were teary eyed. I have also pierced several people over the years with Parkinson's where the body moves uncontrollably, and we found a way for them to get a piercing that made them feel more beautiful, cool, or even badass. There was also a lady in a retirement center, and the staff had asked me to come make a of our customers put "It's not your typical tattoo shop. It's a nice, relaxed atmosphere, everyone there is amazing at what they do."

Our mission statement:

We promise you a clean professional atmosphere, to help you celebrate the individual you are becoming.

What If Your Body Piercer Was Actually Santa Claus?

Rob "Boogeyman" Webb
Under Your Skin Tattoos - Greenwood, IN

I'm a former police officer and bounty hunter. I've driven big box trucks, managed a gas station and even owned a security company. However, there was a turning point in my life where I felt something had to change, and at heart, I've been an artist all my life. In 2008, my friend "T" taught me how to tattoo and pierce in his studio, and in 2009, I opened up Under My Skin. When we first opened, the shop was around the block from where it is today, and it was a basement location with no frontage. We were there for three years, and in the winter, I played Santa at the local malls in order to earn money to move us to a better location. I loved playing Santa. I even dyed my hair and beard to be the most authentic Santa I could be for those kids! There is nothing that makes me happier than seeing kids smile—that and tinkering with stuff. I love to do different kinds of projects and come up with ideas, and try to make things work. If I don't know how to do something, I Google it, watch a video, and figure it out.

I love all kinds of things—computers, drawing, and motorcycles. Boy, do I love motorcycles. My road bike that I call Demon, and Ruby, my other bike, those are my favorites... I ride as an outlet, to clear my mind.

I also love my 10-year old daughter.

She is amazing. She spends lots of time with me at the shop. She knows all the tools, can ring the register, fill out the paperwork, answer the phone... She is planning on being a doctor and owning my studio in the future. I am so proud of her—and also of my son, even though we are estranged. When he graduated high school, I was telling everyone about it.

As far as piercings go, my favorite piercing is the daith because I have seen it do life changing things for my clients who suffer from migraines. And to be honest, I love helping people. I mean I would literally give people the shirt off my back.

Even in my shop, a lot of the people who work with me came to me on rough journeys. Some of them came to me out of prison, some were battling addiction, some thinking about suicide, and they were able to get a new start in life working at my shop—they became family, and that makes me feel really good.

You know, I'm a rough guy on the outside. It's my way or the highway, and people can take it or leave it, but on the inside, I have a big heart and I do everything I can to make people happy or to try to help. Piercing lets me do that—make people happy—and that means a lot to me. I even have a few first place piercing awards—like the one I got at Slamology, a local festival. I did a play piercing of a heart on a woman's outer thigh and it turned out great.

NB. Robert Webb passed away before this article could be published. He provided us much of the content and all of the photos prior to his passing.

According to Rob's girlfriend, Shea Dant, Rob was true to his giving spirit to the very end, opting to donate his organs.

His best friend, Rick Moore, remembered him as an incredibly funny guy who could always be counted on. Rick shared this story with us: Rob and I owned a security company together. We were at a job one night, talking, laughing, when all of a sudden gun shots started. Rob took off towards the shooting, and there were a couple of kids, maybe 18 or 19 years old kids, firing rounds at us. At full run, Rob loses his pants around his ankles, hurries to pull them up like an old lady in a girdle, tackles the kid and stops the shooting, saving us both and stopping the situation. That was the kind of guy he was.

Rob's shop will continue to live on as Ginger Bear Ink, because it was taken over by Kenneth "Fitz" Fitzpatrick, an artist who told us this about Rob, "He gave me my start in the industry. After coming out of the marine corps and having a lot of difficulty adjusting to post-military life, I came in for a tattoo and ended up with an apprenticeship. Rob and I had similar backgrounds, his with the police and mine in the military. Our relationship was on and off, but I actually met him 20 years ago when he was teaching my brother to DJ, who now runs the bar he DJ'd at—and that is thanks to Rob, too. Rob changed so many people's lives. If it weren't for his introduction to the industry and to tattooing, I would not be where I am today. I had left the shop and went to tattoo elsewhere, and the last time he asked me to come back, it was the right time, and so I came back. He really needed a friend more than an artist at the shop at that time. We would hang out, share stories, just be in the same space. I started managing the shop. And when he died, I stepped in to keep the shop open, and eventually I ended up buying it. Rob ran an old school style tattoo shop, the hardcore kind, but he made sure to bring heart to what we did. We used to keep play tattoos and candy around the shop for the kids who would come in—which a lot of shops don't do because they figure kids are underage—but he wanted the local kids to see his shop as a good place, where they were welcome. Rob influenced us all. He believed in paying it forward. And we're going to keep that same spirit in the shop.

RIP.
